

Symposiums

The FRFG has organised numerous successful symposia over the last 10 years. As a think tank, the FRFG's aim is to stimulate academic and multidisciplinary discussion to raise public awareness on a particular topic, whilst also giving the topic a scientific base. The more recent symposiums have also served as appropriate settings for the awards ceremony for the biannually awarded 'Intergenerational Justice Prize'.

In these pages you will find overviews of our symposia:

2012 Symposium in Stuttgart for the awarding of the Sixth Intergenerational Justice Award

2012 Symposium in Berlin for the Third Demography Prize
Theme: "A Power Shift between Generations"

2011 Symposium for the awarding of the Fifth Intergenerational Justice Award

2010 Two events in Berlin: Demography Prize and EU2020; International Conference in Lisbon on Intergenerational Justice and Law

2008 Easing the Rush Hour of life - Diversity of life courses in international comparison
